NCH New Europe Property Fund, L.P.
(All figures are unaudited)

Dear Partner,

NCH New Europe Property Fund, L.P. (“NEPF” or “the Fund”) has fully called its $551 million of committed capital. Through its portfolio companies, the Fund operates an agribusiness in Ukraine representing 82% of the Fund’s estimated total portfolio fair value, with the balance comprised of real estate and real estate-related assets in Bulgaria, Latvia, Moldova, Romania, Serbia and Ukraine.

To date, NEPF has distributed $398 million to Limited Partners. Together with the Fund’s estimated fair value as of June 30, 2025, this represents a net total value to paid-in capital of 0.9x.¹ Of the amount distributed, $7.0 million was distributed during the first half of 2025, primarily from asset sales in Latvia and Romania. Historically, upstreams from the Fund’s Ukraine agribusiness has been the largest contributor to the Fund’s annual distributions. However, with the outbreak of war in February 2022 and the ensuing capital controls in Ukraine, these upstreams stopped. For the first time since the war began, in 2024 the Fund’s operations in Ukraine were able to upstream a modest amount ($3 million) to the Fund from its crop trading business in Cyprus; we are expecting to make a similar distribution in 2025.

Ukraine

Despite the ongoing war, we continue to operate all the Fund’s agribusiness assets in Ukraine.

Seasonal crop yields are in line with long-term trends, with a very early 2025 season EBITDA forecast of $24 million.² Wartime capital controls in Ukraine continue to prevent cash upstreams from the business to the Fund. There is no clarity as to when these could be lifted. The vast majority of historical upstreams to the Fund and ¹ Distributions are presented before offsets made to cover management fees pursuant to the Fund’s Limited Partnership Agreement.

² Follows the agricultural season which for AgroProsperis is generally April of the pre-harvest year until April of the post-harvest year (i.e., April 2024-April 2026 is the “2025 season”). This allows insight into agricultural results as it follows seed to harvest more accurately than calendar year, which we also track and report annually under audited IFRS guidelines.

investors have come from operations; since the start of the war, almost all excess cash from operations has legally been required to remain in Ukraine.

Exit prospects in Ukraine were daunting before the war. Now, of course, they are even more remote. While there is some potential for the sale of individual farms in Ukraine, capital controls restrict the upstreaming of proceeds from such sales.

Our priorities remain employee safety and protecting the value of the Fund's assets. Thank you to each of you for your partnership and support for Ukraine and our Ukraine team.

Other Holdings

The balance (18%) of the Fund's estimated fair value is comprised of a portfolio of real estate and related investments, which we continue to work to exit. In H1 2025, we sold a portion of our Romanian land portfolio and entered into an agreement on another asset; sold one of the two remaining underlying assets in the Dreilini project in Latvia (leaving just 2.3 ha), and advanced the sale of Prime Capital in Moldova. These transactions are described below. We use very little leverage in the real estate portfolio and continue seeking exits at non-fire-sale prices.

UKRAINE PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

Farmland Investments

82% of estimated Total Portfolio Fair Value

Asset Type:	Farming operations
Size:	89,342 hectares of land under lease, of which nearly all land is seeded in the 2025 season
Start Date:	November 2006
Website:	www.agroprosperis.com
Investment:	$198 million
Cash Upstreamed:	$300 million
Est. Value at 06/30/25:	$181.9 million

Despite the ongoing war, we have access to and operate all NEPF Ukraine's agribusiness assets. As of June 30, 2025, the Fund's agribusiness leased approximately 89,340 ha of farmland, of which 95% is seeded in the 2025 season, and owned approximately 198,900 tons of grain storage capacity at its farm clusters. Over time, the Fund has invested $248 million into agribusiness in Ukraine, including a $50 million loan from the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development ("EBRD") that was repaid in full in 2016. As of June 30, 2025, NEPF's Ukraine agribusiness has upstreamed $300 million to the Fund, or 151% of the $198 million of Fund capital originally invested. Operating income accounted for 91% of these upstreams, with the remainder generated by farm sales.

Farming Operations

In the 2025 season, our farms seeded 22,592 ha of wheat, 18,146 ha of rapeseed, 22,585 ha of soybeans, 12,592 ha of sunflower seed, 8,724 ha of corn and a small amount of barley. We completed harvesting winter crops (wheat, barley and rapeseed). Wheat and barley yields are approximately 10% above our long-term trendline, while rapeseed was approximately 15% below trendline after a dry winter and frost during the flowering stage. Spring crops (soya, corn and sunseed) are in good condition; we anticipate trendline yields.

Global crop prices spiked in 2022 following Russia's invasion, driven by concerns about Ukraine's ability to export grain. Since then, global crop prices have decreased and have remained lower as the world has adjusted to the uncertainty of exports from Ukraine through rebalanced trade flows. We are currently 27% sold on our 2025 season harvest and project EBITDA for the 2025 season at approximately $24 million, after $33 million in 2024 season and $12 million in 2023.

While our operations have remained profitable throughout the war, capital controls imposed by Ukraine when the war began prevent us from upstreaming farming profits from Ukraine to the Fund. However, as in calendar year 2024, we expect to be able to distribute a portion of our profit from the Fund's Cyprus crop trading operations.

Supply Chain Operations

Our inbound supply chain operations are currently stable, and our team has been able to access all necessary inputs, including high-volume inputs like fertilizer and fuel, and transport them to the farms on time and in good quality. This is a critical element in achieving stable crop yields.

Our outbound supply chain, however, has been profoundly affected by the war. Black Sea ports, through which Ukraine has historically exported 98% of its grain and 85% of its oilseed crops, were blocked from the start of the war in February 2022 through early August 2022, when an agreement termed the Black Sea Grain Initiative created a corridor allowing vessels to leave Ukraine's deep-water ports amid the ongoing war. Russia pulled out of this agreement in June 2023, declaring it would deem all commercial vessels entering Ukraine's Black Sea ports to be military targets. Shortly thereafter, in August 2023, Ukraine's military advances at the Black Sea allowed it to open a new export corridor without the support of Russia. This export route has operated without major disruptions since then.

Initially, export costs were higher than before the war due to higher insurance, freight rates, and export terminal fees. Since 2024, due to relatively stable crop exports from Ukraine, export costs have declined, which has helped stabilize margins. The Black Sea export channel remains the most cost-effective option for getting Ukraine's crops to the international market, compared to alternative routes on rail through Ukraine's western border or on the Danube River. Accordingly, we are using this corridor to export most of our crops. At the same time, we continue to keep alternative export routes on rail and river open so that we can shift quickly should the Black Sea route become inaccessible.

Cash Distributions

When the war started, the National Bank of Ukraine ("NBU") imposed capital controls. They prohibit, with few exceptions, the payment of dividends on foreign direct investments in Ukraine as well as interest and principal payments on foreign loans. To stimulate foreign investments, in May 2024, the NBU unveiled certain easing measures to these controls. While there are now some options to pay dividends and interest on foreign loans, these easing measures have very stringent limits and are more symbolic than substantive. Moreover, a requirement to repatriate all export revenues to Ukraine within 120 days remains in place and is strictly enforced. We therefore continue to be severely constrained in our ability to upstream farming profits from Ukraine to the Fund. The future of the capital controls regime and thus our ability to upstream cash to the Fund remain highly uncertain.

As of this writing, the Fund's Ukraine agribusiness has $64 million of cash reserves ($62 million in USD and $2 million in Grivna). Cash held in Cyprus is repatriated to Ukraine as needed to comply with controls.

In addition to its farming operations in Ukraine, the Fund has also owned and operated a crop trading business in Cyprus. It procures crops from both the Fund's own portfolio company farms and third-party farmers in Ukraine and sells them to external buyers. While this business generates profits, they are generally much more modest than the Fund's farming operations in Ukraine.

Exits

Prior to the war, low foreign direct investment and restrictive land reform, combined with depressed farming business valuations, made the sale of our agribusiness in Ukraine as a whole at an attractive (or even reasonable) price unlikely, despite the fact that the platform had historically generated consistent double-digit cash yields. With no visibility as to when or how the war will end, the prospect of a platform exit through one large transaction is even more remote.

That said, the domestic market for farm assets is now active following a largely dormant period early in the war, and prices for farmland leases are sometimes even exceeding pre-war levels. Ukraine lacks foreign direct investments, but, at present, the capital controls in place prevent most cash in Ukraine from leaving the country. As a result, those with capital in Ukraine are seeking local investment opportunities. We therefore evaluate opportunities to sell underperforming farms. With capital controls in place, however, as a general matter we would not be able to distribute cash to Limited Partners from assets sold to buyers in Ukraine. In the case of well-performing farms, the prudent path forward remains to focus on operating them and exporting their crops. Our main goals, after the safety of our employees, are protecting the value of the Fund's invested capital and working towards maximum possible cash distributions to Limited Partners when that becomes possible.

Material activity

during period:	Upstreamed $1.2 million from agricultural land sales and rental income.
Asset Type:	Well-located land plots in Bucharest and in secondary cities across Romania; retail complex in Arad; and agricultural land located primarily in southeastern Romania.
Initial Transaction:	Purchased and consolidated 1,789 hectares of agricultural land; acquired 75 hectares of land for development
Strategy:	Sell properties to developers and end-users
Start Date:	Several transactions
Investment:	$39.7 million
Cash Upstreamed:	$28.5 million
Est. Value at 06/30/25:	$21.8 million

Project description

As of June 30, 2025, the Fund's Romanian holdings are diversified across: 1) Land plots in several cities totaling 6.6 ha, following several sales (down from 9.6 ha at peak); 2) one 0.6 ha plot on the outskirts of Bucharest (down from 64 ha at peak following numerous sales); 3) a retail shopping complex in the city of Arad; 4) 522 ha of agricultural land (down from 1,789 ha at peak following numerous sales).

- 1) Land plots in various cities: We are working to sell the remaining 6.6 ha of plots and are engaged in discussions with potential buyers. We were in advanced negotiations to sell ~3 ha, but the transaction did not close; we are now seeking other buyers.
- 2) Plot on the outskirts of Bucharest: In 2021, we restructured some of the land to optimize marketability. In Q2 2024, we sold 59 of 64 ha in one transaction for approximately $8.3 million on a ten-year installment plan, and in Q4 2024, we sold an additional 4.05 ha in full for ~$0.4 million. Across both sales, ~$1.2 million was received, with an initial $0.8 million upstreamed to the Fund and another $0.3 million during H1 2025. The only remaining asset is a 0.6 ha plot, which we are actively marketing.
- 3) Retail shopping complex in Arad, with spaces leased to third-party tenants: In H1 2025, occupancy averaged 59%, and we collected approximately $0.2 million in rental income. In May 2025, we signed a reservation agreement for this property, collecting an earnest payment of €100,000 in exchange for a three-month exclusivity period. Subject to final agreement, the contract calls for a net price of €6 million ($7 million), structured as an installment sale.

- 4) Agricultural land: In the first half of 2025, we sold 42 ha (38 ha paid in-full and 4 ha via installment sales), collecting a total of $0.41 million. We expect to lease ~46% of our remaining 522 ha while we work to sell, and forecast collecting approximately $0.1 million in annual rental income. During H1 2025, we upstreamed $0.9 million to the Fund from these land sales as well as rental income and other prior sales.

LATVIA PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

Real Estate Investments

Project: Dreilini (Sia Balze,¹ Sia Balera) – Riga, Latvia

0.1% of estimated Total Portfolio Fair Value

Material activity

during period:	Title transfer for all Sia Balze properties
Asset Type:	Development land, Riga
Initial Transaction:	Aggregated speculative land holdings
Strategy:	Hold and sell
Start Date:	Several transactions
Investment to Date:	$27.1 million
Cash Upstreamed to Date:	$3.2 million
Est. Value at 06/30/25:	$0.3 million ²

¹ Sia Brave with its remaining two small land properties was wholly merged into Sia Balze in July 2024.

² Does not include pending installment sale proceeds from recent sale of Sia Balze, which is described below.

Project description

In the second half of 2024, a sales agreement was signed for Sia Balze (8.1 ha), one of two remaining underlying properties in Dreilini, for total expected proceeds of €3.5 million. During H1 2025, ownership title was transferred to the buyer and a 20% downpayment was received and upstreamed to the Fund ($707K), with the remainder to be paid in installments over the next 12 months.

The remaining unsold portion of Dreilini (Sia Balera) is comprised of 2.3 ha currently zoned as forest land. This land was previously designated for limited commercial development; however, new Riga zoning regulations in February 2023 reclassified it as forest land, where building development is prohibited.

Following nearly two years of our extensive lobbying efforts, in Q4 2024, the Riga City Council voted to approve the initiation of a rezoning process to allow limited building development. The rezoning process is expected to take approximately 1.5 – 2 years to complete.

During the first half of 2025, the finalized key environmental surveys – ornithological and dendrological – confirmed that the land is suitable for building development. The next major milestone in the process is the submission of the full rezoning package to the City of Riga, targeted for August 2025. This will be followed by a decision from the Riga City Council (expected in May 2026) on whether to approve the zoning change. In the interim, we will engage with various municipal departments to finalize the rezoning regulations, which must consider the outcomes of one or more public consultations as part of the process. It is important to note that the outcome of the rezoning process remains uncertain.

The area continues to develop, with multiple nearby projects having acquired their land from the Fund and other NCH-affiliated entities. Since 2018, several major developments have been completed, including IKEA, a shopping center, a new logistics hub for LIDL, and an expansion of an RIMI logistics facility. Beyond these large-scale projects, numerous other developments have been completed, are currently under construction, or are in the design phase. Among the completed and ongoing projects are new warehouse / showroom facilities for TZMO, a European cosmetics and medical equipment manufacturer, as well as developments by Estonian companies Estmak Capital and Hepsor. Additionally, the first phase of a retail park by Canada-based VPH has been completed, while PROMO Cash & Carry – the largest wholesale self-service chain in the Baltic States – is under construction. Residential complexes by developers such as YIT, Bonava, and Pillar are also either under construction or already completed. Projects currently in the design phase include warehouse / showroom facilities for Baltic Electro, part of German-based Wurth Group, a global leader in fastening and assembly materials. Other planned developments include a DIY center by DEPO, as well as two large warehouse projects.

MOLDOVA PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

Project: Prime Capital SRL, Chisinau, Moldova

4.1% of estimated Total Portfolio Fair Value

Material activity

during period:	$5.4 million of loans and factoring issued
Asset Type:	Mortgage lender
Initial Transaction:	Mortgage finance company founded by NEPF
Strategy:	Address capital shortage opportunity by financing commercial mortgage loans and gain market share; exit through sale of the company
Start Date:	January 2006
Website:	www.primecapital.md
Investment:	$15.6 million
Cash Upstreamed:	$38.3 million
Est. Value at 06/30/2025:	$9.0 million

Project description

Prime Capital is the first non-banking financial company in Moldova to issue mortgage loans and currently holds around a 1% share of Moldova's residential mortgage market. The company issues both short-term loans (two years) and long-term loans (up to 15 years). As of June 30, 2025, the value of the loan portfolio was $19.6 million. During the first half of 2025, the company issued 218 loans with a total value of $4.78 million and 351 factoring transactions with a total value of $0.64 million. Approximately 71% are collateralized by real estate, with an overall current loan-to-value ratio of 43%. The allowance for impairment losses as of June 30, 2025 was $1.66 million (~8.2% of the gross loan portfolio). In the first half of 2025, Prime Capital gained $603,000 in comprehensive income.

We are currently in the pre-sale process for Prime Capital. The Fund has a non-binding offer from a potential buyer, with the transaction currently in buyer due diligence.

Moldova's economy in the first half of 2025 is characterized by contraction in key sectors, high inflation driven by energy crises, and ongoing structural challenges. Moldova's GDP growth projections for 2025 were downgraded to between 0.6% and 0.9%, attributed to energy price shocks, reduced household purchasing power, and ongoing geopolitical tensions. Despite the early-year contraction, the lending market rebounded in the first quarter. Mortgage lending experienced a significant upswing, with new mortgage loans increasing by 120.3% year-on-year in Q1 2025, although this was a 9.6% decrease from the previous quarter. Consumer loans also saw substantial growth, rising by 35.8% year-on-year, despite a slight 0.9% decline from Q4 2024. In total, over 55,000 consumer loans were issued in Q1 2025, nearly 40% more than in the same period the previous year. This made the sector hyper-competitive, leaving little room for non-bank financial institutions, which usually can command higher pricing. Constant cost increases have put pressure on the company's profitability. The decrease the USD vs. EUR (11.7%) and MDL (8%) has also impacted Prime Capital's operations.
