The second quarter of 2025 saw a strong rebound in public markets following a volatile start to the year. The NASDAQ led major indices with an 18% gain, fueled by renewed investor enthusiasm for large-cap tech and stocks driven by AI. The S&P rose nearly 11%, reaching a new all-time high on the back of strong earnings in the technology and communications sectors, while the Dow posted a more modest 5% increase, reflecting its lower exposure to high-growth industries. Market sentiment improved mid-quarter amid a pause in new tariffs and renewed trade talks, and resilient corporate earnings further supported overall equity performance. The U.S. economy also saw a strong rebound, with Q2 GDP growing at a 3.0% annualized rate after a 0.5% contraction in Q1. Much of the bounceback was driven by a sharp drop in imports, which contributed nearly five percentage points to GDP growth - the largest swing since the late 1940s. Underlying private domestic demand was notably weaker, with consumer spending up only 1.4%. Labor markets remained steady, with 147,000 jobs added in June and the unemployment rate ticked down to 4.1%. Notable gains were seen in healthcare and local government, while federal employment declined further. Inflation continued to ease, with the Federal Reserve's preferred PCE index falling to 2.1% annualized and core PCE easing to 2.5%, down from 3.5% in Q1. Despite strong headline data, market sentiment remained cautious amid ongoing macroeconomic uncertainty and concerns over the sustainability of domestic demand.

Venture capital activity moderated in the second quarter following an exceptionally strong Q1. Deal count declined 16% to 3,038 completed transactions, while overall deal value dropped 25% to $69.9 billion, largely due to the absence of outsized rounds like OpenAI's $40 billion raise in Q1. Despite this slowdown, total activity for the first half of the year was $162.8 billion, which represents a 76% increase over the first half of 2024. This increase was primarily driven by the venture-growth segment, which increased an 384% year-over-year to $83.9 billion and is on pace to surpass its 2021 record of $91.6 billion. AI continued to dominate the venture landscape, representing 64% of total deal value and 36% of deal count in the first half of 2025. This sustained concentration of capital in the sector drove median valuations to decade highs across most series.

Exit activity accelerated in the second quarter, reaching the highest quarterly value since Q4 2021. Total exit value reached $67.7 billion across 319 transactions, marking a 90% increase over Q1. Six companies with valuations above $1 billion went public during the quarter, a notable improvement following the solitary unicorn IPO (CoreWeave) in Q1, though many debuted at reduced valuations. Chime, for example, entered the markets at a $9.1 billion valuation, well below its prior $25 billion private peak. Strategic M&A was also a major driver, highlighted by OpenAI's acquisition of Jony Ive's AI-focused design firm and Meta's partial purchase of Scale AI, underscoring sustained demand for category-defining technology assets. Encouragingly, momentum has carried into the second half of the year, with several high-profile tech IPOs pricing in July. While the IPO market is still in the early stages of recovery, the strength of these debuts points to a meaningful pickup in investor appetite and growing signs that the window is beginning to reopen for high-quality tech listings.

Fundraising activity remained muted in Q2, as ongoing liquidity pressures and cautious LP sentiment continued to weigh on capital formation. Only $26.6 billion was raised across 238 funds in the first half of 2025, putting the year on track for the lowest fundraising total in over a decade. The capital raised was increasingly concentrated among larger vehicles: just 11 funds accounted for a substantial share of all dollars raised. Funds over $500 million represented 50% of total capital raised in the first half of the year but only 4% of fund count. Funds over $1 billion comprised 34% total capital in the period, yet made up just 1% of the number of funds raised. This ongoing polarization reflects a continued flight to scale and perceived manager quality in a more selective fundraising environment.

On the administrative side, we're pleased to share an upcoming upgrade to our Limited Partner portal, which will soon migrate to the newest version of the Dynamo platform. All historical documents and data will remain fully available in the new portal, which offers a more intuitive design. We anticipate completing this transition by the end of September. For any questions, please reach out to us at lp.support@matrix.vc.

CONFIDENTIAL

As we enter the second half of 2025, we're encouraged by the improving sentiment in public markets and the reemergence of the tech IPO pipeline - developments we believe will have positive ripple effects across the venture landscape. While macroeconomic and geopolitical risks remain, we continue to prioritize disciplined execution: backing exceptional founders early, guiding portfolio companies through both growth and headwinds, and maintaining a high bar for new investments. The structural drivers behind AI automation and digital infrastructure adoption remain strong, and we believe these trends will continue to unlock compelling opportunities for long-term value creation across our core sectors. As always, we're grateful for your continued trust and partnership.

Details on portfolio activity during the quarter can be found in the fund-specific letters that follow.

Sincerely,

Matrix Partners

To the Limited Partners of Matrix Partners IX, L.P.:

- Cumulative portfolio value (investment portfolio plus cumulative realized value) decreased $1.1 million during the quarter, remaining at a total of $2.7 billion (5.5x cost). The $1.1 million of net depreciation is a result of a $4.0 million markdown in the private portfolio and a decrease of $0.6 million from the dissolution of one portfolio company, offset by a $2.2 million increase from the sale of a public company and a $1.3 million increase from the receipt of escrow and earnout proceeds from prior period sales.
- Cumulative value to Limited Partners (equity plus distributions) decreased $1.6 million during the quarter, remaining at a total of $1.8 billion (4.5x contributed capital). The decrease is the result of the portfolio depreciation discussed above, augmented by operating activity
- From the first capital call in October 2010, the Partnership has invested $487.4 million (108% of committed capital). This portfolio has appreciated 452% and is currently valued at $2.7 billion. As of June 30, 2025, the Partnership held securities in 10 private companies (including one seed) with a fair value of $1.4 billion and a cost of $158.6 million.

There were no incremental investments during the quarter.

During the quarter, one portfolio company was marked down, one public company was sold, and one portfolio company was dissolved. Trax, previously carried at $52.14 per share, was marked down to cost, or $36.76 per share, resulting in a decrease in portfolio value of $4.0 million. The Partnership received shares in Trax from the acquisition of Quri in 2019. While Trax has significant revenue scale, the company has not been able to meet its internal financial projections for the last several quarters and is still trying to achieve profitability. In April 2025, Markforged was acquired by Nano Dimension Ltd (Nasdaq: NNDM) for $116 million in cash, or $5.00 per share. The Partnership received proceeds of $15.6 million, resulting in a realized gain of $3.9 million and an increase in portfolio value of $2.2 million, as the investment was previously carried at the public price per share. In June 2025, Klip was dissolved in connection with the acquisition of Machinify mentioned last quarter. As a result of the liquidation, the Partnership received cash proceeds of $1.7 million and an additional 13,338 common shares of Machinify, valued at $2.4 million, or $181.84 per share. The transaction resulted in a realized gain of $1.6 million and a decrease in portfolio value of $0.6 million. In April 2025, the Partnership received a total of $1.2 million of escrow and earnout proceeds from the prior period sales of Bugsnap, Inflection, and Machinify, resulting in a realized gain of $1.2 million and an increase in portfolio value of $1.3 million.

No additional capital was called during the quarter. The Partnership held cash of $59.6 million on June 30, 2025, and the net loss from operations for the quarter was $0.8 million.
