To the Limited Partners of Matrix Partners VII, L.P., Matrix Partners VIII, L.P., Matrix Partners IX, L.P., Matrix Partners X, L.P., Matrix Partners XI, L.P., and Matrix Partners XII, L.P.:

In the third quarter of 2025, U.S. equity markets delivered broad-based gains, supported by easing inflation, resilient corporate earnings, and optimism surrounding the Federal Reserve's ongoing monetary easing cycle. The Nasdaq led major indices with an 11% increase, buoyed by continued momentum in technology and AI-related stocks, followed by an 8% gain in the S&P 500 and a more moderate 5% gain in the Dow. Although valuations reached new highs and major indices hit record-breaking levels, market momentum remained supported by improving economic sentiment, moderating inflation, and resilient investor confidence—even as a federal government shutdown loomed heading into Q4. Looking ahead, much will depend on how markets respond to the reopening of the government, the Federal Reserve's next policy decisions, the durability of corporate earnings, and whether market leadership can extend beyond the dominant mega-cap technology names. Due to the aforementioned federal government shutdown, the release of key economic indicators - including labor market and GDP data - has been temporarily suspended. These figures will remain unavailable until normal government operations resume.

Venture capital activity strengthened modestly in the third quarter of 2025, with deal value rebounding following a softer second quarter. Although deal count declined 10% to 3,175 completed transactions, overall deal value edged up 5% to $80.9 billion, reflecting steady investor engagement despite ongoing macro uncertainty. This brought total year-to-date venture investment to $250.2 billion across 10,616 deals, marking an 87% increase in capital deployed over 9% fewer transactions compared with the same period in 2024 ($134.1 billion across 11,662 deals). The surge continues to be driven by outsized financings, with nine $1 billion-plus rounds accounting for nearly 40% of total deal value in the third quarter alone. Much of this concentration stemmed from AI and machine learning leaders, as investors maintained strong conviction in the sector despite tighter liquidity and fundraising headwinds.

Total exit value reached $74.5 billion across 309 transactions in Q3, a 5% increase over Q2's value, even as the number of transactions declined 15% quarter-over-quarter. Public listings were the clear standout, generating 62% of total exit value in Q3 ($46.2 billion) while accounting for only 7% of all exit transactions. IPO activity remained concentrated but showed signs of improvement, with Figma emerging as the clear standout alongside a small group of other high-profile listings that dominated market attention. The concentration of capital among a few large, high-quality names underscores the uneven nature of the rebound, as smaller offerings continued to face mixed demand. This narrow distribution raises ongoing questions about the breadth and durability of the current IPO recovery. Still, optimism for a sustained resurgence persists, supported by an 89% increase in aggregate exit valuation and a 64% rise in the number of listings compared with the prior quarter.

Fundraising activity edged higher in the third quarter, with $19.2 billion raised, though the number of funds declined 9% to 138. This brings total capital raised in 2025 to $45.7 billion across 376 funds, representing a 30% decline in dollars raised when compared to the $65.1 billion raised by 380 funds in the first three quarters of 2024. The persistent lack of liquidity for limited partners continues to weigh on commitments, with many limited partners adopting a slower and more selective approach to re-ups. Despite the modest uptick in activity, fundraising remains on pace for the lowest annual total since 2017, underscoring the ongoing challenges faced by managers in an increasingly selective capital environment. As in recent quarters, capital remained highly concentrated among larger, established managers, with just 20 funds accounting for more than half of all dollars raised.

CONFIDENTIAL

As we approach the year's close, the evidence of a broader innovation cycle is becoming more tangible—especially as AI transitions from experimentation to integration and investment momentum builds around enabling infrastructure. At the same time, we remain mindful that valuations have rebounded faster than liquidity, creating a challenging environment for investing at the earliest stages. Accordingly, we are maintaining our discipline of patience, selectivity, and conviction—focusing on our core sectors where technology adoption curves are steepening and durable company foundations can be built. Our portfolio reflects these priorities, and we believe this period offers the opportunity to compound advantage through long-term innovation rather than short-term enthusiasm.

Details on portfolio activity during the quarter can be found in the fund-specific letters that follow.

Sincerely,

Matrix Partners

To the Limited Partners of Matrix Partners IX, L.P.:

- Cumulative portfolio value (investment portfolio plus cumulative realized value) increased $463.1 million during the quarter, to a total of $3.2 billion (6.5x cost). The increase is the result of $463.1 million of net appreciation in the portfolio. The net appreciation consists of $473.3 million of net markups in the portfolio, offset by a decrease of $10.1 million from the write-offs of one portfolio company and one seed investment, and a decrease of $0.1 million from the receipt of escrow proceeds from prior period sales.
- Cumulative value to Limited Partners (equity plus distributions) increased $320.3 million to a total of $2.1 billion (5.3x contributed capital). The increase is the result of the portfolio appreciation discussed above, offset by operating activity.
- From the first capital call in October 2010, the Partnership has invested $487.4 million (108% of committed capital). This portfolio has appreciated 547% and is currently valued at $3.2 billion. As of September 30, 2025, the Partnership held securities in eight private companies with a fair value of $1.8 billion and a cost of $148.5 million.

There were no incremental investments during the quarter.

During the quarter, one portfolio company was marked up, one portfolio company was marked down, one portfolio company and one seed investment were written off, and escrow proceeds were received from prior period sales. Canva, previously valued at $1,066.66 per share, was marked up to a recent secondary transaction price of $1,646.14 per share, resulting in an increase in portfolio value of $488.6 million. The company continues to execute well, producing consistent growth and solid financial performance. Salsify, previously valued at $15.57 per share representing a total company value of $1.1 billion, was marked down to a total company value of $1.0 billion, or $13.79 per share, resulting in a decrease in portfolio value of $15.3 million. The company has been negatively affected by the macro environment and has engaged a banker to explore a sale. The updated value represents the best estimate of proceeds in the event of a liquidity transaction. Trax, previously valued at $36.76 per share, was written off, resulting in a decrease in portfolio value of $9.6 million and a realized loss of the same amount. Shares in Trax were received from the acquisition of Quri in 2017. We had previously marked our investment in the company down to cost last quarter after negative performance. The company is in the process of raising a recap round and Matrix will not participate. One seed investment was written off resulting in a decrease in portfolio value of $0.5 million and a realized loss of the same amount. The Partnership received escrow proceeds of $0.2 million resulting in a realized gain of the same amount and a decrease in investment portfolio value of $0.1 million.

No additional capital was called during the quarter. The Partnership held cash of $59.1 million on September 30, 2025, and the net loss from operations for the quarter was $0.6 million.
