² The definition of the term "development" is not consistent across the portfolio companies. Regardless of how a portfolio company uses this term, it is worth noting that not all projects in "development" will mature into completed towers.

What We Are Seeing

From the questions we have been receiving, it appears we are all seeing the same thing: a lot of news articles about EchoStar, the parent company of DISH and Boost Mobile³. In this edition of “What We are Seeing,” we are going to provide a brief refresher on DISH’s mobile efforts, summarize EchoStar’s recent announcements, and highlight the impact to TPG Peppertree and our portfolio companies.

First, let’s rewind ten years. In the “What We are Seeing” for the quarter ended June 30, 2015, we noted that DISH, a TV content provider with no mobile offering at that time, had accumulated wireless spectrum licenses worth more than the licenses then-owned by mobile carrier T-Mobile. We predicted that DISH would either enter the wireless market, merge with T-Mobile or Sprint, or sell its spectrum licenses to the existing carriers. Ultimately, DISH did become the fourth nationwide US wireless carrier when T-Mobile and Sprint merged in 2020, and the Department of Justice required T-Mobile and Sprint to divest certain customers and assets (primarily Sprint’s subsidiary Boost Mobile) to DISH, giving it a platform to build a network.

Then, five years ago, in the “What We are Seeing” for the quarter ended December 31, 2020, we highlighted DISH’s initial efforts to build a new wireless network, including its various deployment commitments to the Federal Communications Commission (the “FCC”). But, DISH’s network buildout did not go as smoothly as planned and eventually resulted in DISH negotiating buildout extensions with the FCC (then under the Biden administration) in September 2024. To give the reader a sense of “not smoothly,” DISH’s extension request to the FCC in September 2024 was 50 pages long. Despite the aforementioned extensions, on May 9, 2025, the Chairman of the FCC (now under the Trump administration) sent a letter to EchoStar indicating that the FCC would “begin a review of EchoStar’s compliance with its federal obligations to provide 5G service throughout the United States.”⁴

Which brings us to today. EchoStar announced a series of transactions over the past nine months involving spectrum sales and a plan to transition to a hybrid mobile network operator (“MNO”).

- First, on August 26, 2025, EchoStar agreed to sell a combination of low and mid-band spectrum licenses to AT&T for $23 billion. As part of the transaction, EchoStar also entered into an agreement with AT&T whereby EchoStar’s Boost Mobile customers will transition to being served primarily through AT&T’s network. (The term “hybrid” above refers to the continued use of some of DISH’s network components.)
- Subsequently, on September 8, 2025, EchoStar entered into an agreement with Elon Musk’s satellite company SpaceX, the parent company of Starlink, to sell the company’s AWS-4 and H-block spectrum licenses for approximately $17 billion, consisting of up to $8.5 billion in cash and up to $8.5 billion in SpaceX stock.
- Finally, on November 6, 2025, EchoStar expanded its agreement with SpaceX to include certain of the company’s AWS-3 spectrum licenses for approximately $2.6 billion in SpaceX stock.

How do these transaction impact TPG Peppertree? Let’s break it down.

1. Satellites. We do not expect the demand for traditional cell towers to materially change. As Elon Musk has stated, “[Starlink is] not a substitute for ground cell stations [i.e., towers] because ground cell stations, especially in urban and suburban areas will definitely be superior to what we’re talking about here. [Starlink] is really meant to provide basic coverage to areas that are currently completely dead.”⁵ Satellites are intended to serve areas that otherwise lack coverage, be it temporary or permanent: think emergency situations, off-grid hiking, remote regions, or open waters. They are low capacity and high latency, which is the opposite of what 5G networks provide. (For further background, please see the “What We are Seeing” for the quarter ended March 31, 2024.)

³ For the sake of simplicity, we have included references to EchoStar and DISH somewhat interchangeably throughout this WWAS; however, technically speaking, they are separate legal entities and there are multiple EchoStar subsidiaries which include the name “Dish”.

⁴ EchoStar Corporation, SEC Form 8-K, May 13, 2025.

⁵ SpaceX and T-Mobile Update public announcement, August 25, 2022.

It's worth highlighting that the wireless carriers have acknowledged similar points in discussing their various partnerships. One of Starlink's key partners, T-Mobile, has noted: "With well over half a million square miles of the U.S. and vast stretches of ocean unreachable by terrestrial network coverage, due to terrain limitations, land-use restrictions and more, this new service aims to give customers a crucial additional layer of connectivity when and where they need it most. With the new service, the goal is to eliminate worrying about mobile dead zones and lugging around expensive satellite phones...."⁶ AT&T's partnership with AST SpaceMobile shares the same goal: "Space-based direct-to-mobile technology is designed to provide customers connectivity by complementing and integrating with our existing mobile network.... This agreement is the next step in our industry leadership to use emerging satellite technologies to provide services to consumers and in locations where connectivity was not previously feasible."⁷

Wall Street research analysts agree, too. To quote Morgan Stanley's Benjamin Swinburne, "We see Starlink's next-gen DTC [direct-to-cell] service meaningfully improving connectivity in geographies currently off the grid, but not a direct threat to US wireless or broadband providers...."⁸ Wells Fargo research analyst Eric Luebchow put it even more bluntly: "the satellite – tower disintermediation theory needs to be de-bunked."⁹ If you want just one statistic to support Mr. Luebchow's perspective, keep in mind that 80% of mobile traffic is indoors¹⁰ – and satellites need a clear line-of-sight between the handset and the sky. So, then, what is all the fuss about? It's about areas where it is impractical or impossible to provide coverage via the terrestrial network as noted above, but even more so, it's the large portions of the globe where network operators (and tower companies) do not want to go for economic or security reasons.

2. DISH. We were skeptical of DISH's mobile efforts from early on and, as a result, we did not approve the building of a single tower for DISH; the credit, execution, and political risks were too high. Instead, our portfolio companies signed colocation leases, thereby allowing DISH to install equipment on existing assets at no incremental cost to us. We benefitted from DISH lease-up while we could, knowing all along that it was potentially short-lived. And, unfortunately, it was: DISH recently ceased paying its tower rental obligations, resulting in various legal actions being taken by American Tower, Crown Castle, SBA and a number of private towercos including a consortium of our companies.¹¹ That said, by design, our overall exposure is modest: approximately 3% of aggregate revenue across all of our tower portfolio companies comes from DISH. And, over time, the net impact to us is likely to be even less. Why? As DISH transitions to a hybrid MNO, underlying data traffic (and growth) will remain unchanged; any data/subscribers previously utilizing DISH's network will now primarily rely on AT&T's network, which is likely to result in increased capacity needs at AT&T, thereby driving future colo and amendment potential.

3. Spectrum. Spectrum is a finite resource and highly valuable. AT&T's acquisition of 3.45 GHz mid band licenses from EchoStar reinforces AT&T's commitment to the band. In order to achieve the optimal 5G channel size of 100 MHz, AT&T is highly incentivized to acquire any remaining 3.45 GHz licenses – which our Funds IV, VI and VIII own. Cherry Wireless (a portfolio company of Fund VIII) acquired 319 licenses in FCC Auction 110 in 2021/2022 and is the largest independent owner of 3.45 GHz licenses by number. And, through a swap transaction, Omega Wireless (a portfolio company of Funds IV and VI) recently acquired six, highly desirable 3.45 GHz licenses covering major metro markets including Orlando, Phoenix, and Cleveland, among others. Of note, the spectrum "blocks" that Omega acquired within each market bridge the critical gap between the blocks AT&T currently holds and the blocks AT&T is acquiring from DISH, as shown below.

⁶ T-Mobile, "First SpaceX Satellites Launch for Breakthrough Direct to Cell Service with T-Mobile," January 3, 2024.

⁷ AT&T and AST SpaceMobile Announce Definitive Commercial Agreement, May 15, 2024.

⁸ Morgan Stanley, Starlink Plus EchoStar Spectrum – Will SpaceX Partner, Disrupt, or Both?, September 9, 2025.

⁹ Wells Fargo, Teasing Out the DISH Spectrum Sale Impact, September 12, 2025.

¹⁰ Ibid.

¹¹ It is also noteworthy that some of the aggrieved towercos have petitioned the FCC to deny DISH's application to transfer certain licenses (described above) unless DISH honors its contracts with the towercos.

While not directly impacted by the EchoStar transactions, our other spectrum investments also stand to benefit as Verizon risks falling behind AT&T in the race to own sufficient spectrum and T-Mobile risks losing its lead in spectrum holdings. New sources of comparable spectrum are likely to be limited in the near term and/or “shared” (e.g., government entities may have priority use). The licenses held by our portfolio companies are deployment-ready and would require little more than a virtual flip of the switch to light up the spectrum and benefit a carrier’s network.

What’s the bottom line? DISH has been an enigma in the industry for more than a decade, and its recent announcements have created a lot of noise. But, from our perspective, (a) satellites are not going to replace towers; they should be viewed as complementary; (b) the impact of DISH’s network transition will be small and short-lived; and (c) as we’ve been saying for years, spectrum is a highly attractive asset.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Limited and General Partners
Peppertree Capital Fund X, LP
Peppertree Capital Fund X QP, LP

Opinion

We have audited the combined financial statements of Peppertree Capital Fund X, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund X QP, LP (the "Partnerships"), which comprise the combined statement of financial condition, including the combined schedule of investments, as of December 31, 2025, and the related combined statements of operations, changes in partners' capital, and cash flows for the year then ended, and the related notes to the combined financial statements (collectively referred to as the "financial statements").

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Partnerships as of December 31, 2025, and the results of its operations, changes in its partners' capital, and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Partnerships and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Partnerships' ability to continue as a going concern for one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Partnerships' internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Partnerships' ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control-related matters that we identified during the audit.

1. Organization and Description of Business

All capitalized terms are defined in the partnership agreement unless otherwise defined herein.

Peppertree Capital Fund X, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund X, QP, LP, Delaware limited partnerships (the Partnership or the Fund), were formed as limited partnerships and accepted its first commitment on November 17, 2023, for the purpose of making private equity investments in wireless communication tower developers and acquirers. The Partnership operates as an investment company in accordance with Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 946, Financial Services – Investment Companies.

The Partnership's General Partner is Peppertree Capital FX, LP (the General Partner), a Delaware limited partnership. The Partnership is managed by PCM Future Advisor, LLC (the Manager). In accordance with the Agreement of Limited Partnership (the Partnership Agreement), the Partnership will continue until January 22, 2034, unless terminated earlier or extended as provided for in the Partnership Agreement.

The Partnership has Limited Partner capital commitments of $1,986,611,000 of which $993,305,500 has been contributed as of December 31, 2025. The General Partner has made a capital commitment of $43,930,990 to the Fund of which $20,630,981 has been contributed as of December 31, 2025. Each partner is required to fund committed capital contributions within ten days of notice.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

The following is a summary of the Partnership's significant accounting and reporting policies.

Method of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (U.S. GAAP).

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Partnership considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less when purchased to be cash equivalents. The Partnership is subject to credit risk to the extent cash balances held at financial institutions exceed federally insured limits. Interest income is accrued as it is earned on cash and cash equivalents.

Portfolio Investments

Investments are carried at fair value as determined by the General Partner. Realized gains and losses on investments are computed based upon the difference between the sales price or value at the time of sale or distribution and original cost of investments.

Income Taxes

The Partnership pays no income taxes, as the operating results are included in the tax returns of the partners.

The Partnership is subject to the provisions of ASC 740-10, Income Taxes. As of December 31, 2025, the Partnership's U.S. federal income tax returns and state and local returns, if any, are open under the normal three-year statute of limitations and therefore subject to examination. The Partnership has analyzed its tax positions with respect to applicable income tax issues for open tax years (in each respective jurisdiction) and determined no material tax liabilities existed.

The Partnership recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense in the statement of operations. During the year ended December 31, 2025, the Partnership did not accrue any interest or penalties.

Each partner is individually required to report on its own tax return its distributive share of the Partnership's taxable income or loss.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

3. Investments

The Partnership primarily acquires equity investments in portfolio companies. The Partnership enters into investments based on an evaluation performed by the General Partner's management. The General Partner's management evaluates each business' financial condition and potential for growth, among other factors. Generally, collateral is not required. Generally, the Partnership's potential for loss is equal to the carrying value of the investment.

Substantially all investments are in securities which are subject to one or more restrictions on resale and are not freely marketable. The fair value of restricted securities will generally be considered to be the amount which a knowledgeable investor might reasonably be willing to pay on the valuation date for the securities in an arm's length transaction after a full opportunity to study the underlying company.

ASC 820, Fair Value Measurements provides guidance for using fair value to measure assets and liabilities and establishes a hierarchical disclosure framework which prioritizes and ranks the level of market price observability used in measuring investments at fair value. Market price observability is affected by a number of factors, including the type of investment and the characteristics specific to the investment. Investments with readily available actively quoted prices or for which fair value can be measured from actively quoted prices generally will have a higher degree of market price observability and a lesser degree of judgment used in measuring fair value.

Financial instruments measured and reported at fair value are classified and disclosed based on the observability of inputs used in the determination of fair values, as follows:

- Level I – inputs to the valuation methodology are quoted prices available in active markets for identical instruments as of the reporting date. The type of financial instruments included in Level I include actively quoted unrestricted securities and escrow proceeds.
- Level II – inputs to the valuation methodology are other than quoted prices in active markets, which are either directly or indirectly observable as of the reporting date. The type of financial instruments in this category includes investments valued at quoted prices adjusted for observable legal or contractual restrictions specific to the security.
- Level III – inputs to the valuation methodology are unobservable and significant to overall fair value measurement. The inputs into the determination of fair value require significant management judgment or estimation. The fair value of these instruments may be estimated using a combination of observed transaction prices, models or other valuation methodologies based on pricing inputs that are neither directly or indirectly market observable. Financial instruments that are included in this category include private portfolio investments that are supported by little or no market activity.

In certain cases, the inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, the determination of which category within the fair value hierarchy is appropriate for any given financial instrument is based on the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement. The Partnership's assessment of the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgment and considers factors specific to the financial instrument. The Partnership values its investments using valuation methodologies applied on a consistent basis.

Information about Significant Inputs Used in Fair Value Measurements Categorized Within Level III

The following table summarizes quantitative information about the Partnership's Level III investments and inputs as of December 31, 2025:

Valuation Technique for Fair Value Measurements Categorized Within Level III

The Partnership's portfolio investments and related activity were categorized as Level III for the year ended December 31, 2025 since our judgment significantly influences the determination of fair value and there is typically no active market for these investments. The General Partner is responsible for determining the fair value of these investments. Additionally, the Partnership's Advisory Board is responsible for reviewing and approving the fair value of the funds' investments on a quarterly basis. The Advisory Board may obtain input from investment professionals for consideration in carrying out its responsibilities. For Level III inputs that are less observable, to the extent possible, procedures have been established to discuss the valuation methodology with senior management of the General Partner, taking into account the quality of the observable inputs and the financial and economic risks associated with the investments.

Among the factors considered in determining the fair value of each of the portfolio securities are the length of time since the investment was made, the rights and terms of the securities, prices at which subsequent arm's-length financings occurred, the financial condition and operating results, recent sales prices of comparable market transactions, the proportion of the securities owned by the Partnership, nature and duration of resale restrictions applicable to securities owned by the Partnership, and cash flows generated by the underlying portfolio investment. Valuations as of any particular date, however, are not necessarily indicative of amounts which the Partnership may ultimately realize as a result of future sales or other disposition of the private equity investments.

4. Partner's Allocations and Distributions

At the discretion of the General Partner, distributions may be made by the Partnership. Such distributions may be for taxes on net income of the Partnership, or may include discretionary distributions of cash not required for operational purposes or distributions in kind. The Partnership Agreement provides that distributions be allocated to the General and Limited Partners as follows:

- a) Return of capital: First 100% to the partners in proportion to their respective capital contributions until each has received cumulative distributions equal to the amount of its capital contributions for all realized investments and partnership expenses;

Peppertree Capital Fund X, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund X QP, LP

4. Partner's Allocations and Distributions (continued)

- b) Priority return: Second, 100% to the partners in proportion to their respective capital contributions until cumulative distributions represent an 8% per annum rate of return, compounded annually, on such partners' unreturned capital contributions;
- c) General Partner catch-up: Third, 100% to the General Partner until such time as the General Partner has received 20% of the sum of the Priority Return and distributions made pursuant to this paragraph (c); and
- d) 80/20 split: Thereafter, 80% to the Limited Partners pro rata in proportion to their respective capital contributions and 20% to the General Partner.

5. Related-Party Transactions

The Manager is paid an annual management fee, payable quarterly, equal to 2% multiplied by the greater of the total contributions of the partners and $1,500,000,000 for the first four years (the investment period), equal to 2% of the greater of the total contributions of the partners and $1,500,000,000 less the Fund's cost basis of realized investments for one year following the investment period, and equal to 2% of the aggregate capital contributions of the partners attributable to investments less the cost basis of realized investments thereafter. If during the investment period, an additional fund is established with commitments greater than 75% of the commitments to the Fund and makes an initial capital call from its partners, then 2% in the management fee calculation will be replaced with 1.75% beginning with the first full quarter following the initial capital call. Further, for any extensions period, the management fee will be capital contributions attributable to investments in portfolio companies less the cost basis of realized investments multiplied by 1%. Management fees for the year ended December 31, 2025 were $30,000,000.

The General Partner may elect to irrevocably waive management fees by delivering written notice to the Partnership. The amount of the waived management fee shall be treated as a deemed contribution by the General Partner. Management fees waived in 2025 were $8,000,000.

Certain of the Partnership's investments are also held by Peppertree Capital Fund VI, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund VI QP, LP which commenced operations on April 26, 2016, by Peppertree Capital Fund VII, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund VII QP, LP which commenced operations on November 19, 2018, by Peppertree Capital Fund VIII, LP and Peppertree Capital Fund VIII QP, LP which commenced operations on January 17, 2020 and by Peppertree Capital

Three of the Partnership's investments, K2 Towers III, LLC, Tower Lease Partners, LLC and BBDA, LLC are managed by principals of the General Partner.

As of December 31, 2025, there was no expected financial impact of these guarantees to the fund.

6. Line of Credit

The Partnership has a $150,000,000 line of credit with CIBC Bank USA, which is secured by and limited to the amount of undrawn capital commitments of the Partnership. Proceeds from the facility are used to make investments and pay management fees prior to draws of committed capital. Interest is charged at the Prime rate minus 0.50% per annum (6.25% at December 31, 2025) and is paid within 180 days of the advance on the line of credit. Interest paid was $175,149 in 2025. As of December 31, 2025, $51,012,907 was outstanding on the line of credit. Under the terms of the credit agreement, the Partnership is required to comply with certain debt covenants. As of December 31, 2025, the Partnership is in compliance with such covenants.

7. Selected Financial Highlights

The following financial highlights are being presented in accordance with the requirements of ASC 946 for the year ended December 31, 2025:

Internal rate of return (net), since inception:
Beginning of year	37.17%
End of year	18.08%
Ratios to average Limited Partners' capital:
Expenses before carried interest to the General Partner	(3.62)%

Operating expense and net investment loss amounts used to calculate the ratios include amounts allocated to the Limited Partners' capital accounts only, which are also net of any allocations to the General Partner.

The ratios are computed on the weighted-average net assets of the Limited Partners for the year ended December 31, 2025. Expenses include the Limited Partners' share of the management fees and other partnership expenses. Net investment loss, as defined, excludes realized and unrealized gains and losses.

8. Risks and Uncertainties

The following summary of certain risk factors is not intended to be a comprehensive summary of all of the risks of the Partnership's investments or all of the risks inherent in investing in the Partnership. The General Partner monitors all such risks on an ongoing basis.

- Market Risk – Concentrations of market risk may exist with respect to the Partnership's investments and its other assets and liabilities. Market risk is a potential loss the Partnership may incur as a result of changes in the fair value of its investments. Foreign market risk includes the risk arising from investments located outside of the United States. Investments outside of the United States may be subject to economic, political and legal risks.
- Valuation and Liquidity Risk – The Company's portfolio is comprised primarily of direct investments in private operating companies. There is no public market for the securities of the operating companies. As a result, fair value for these investments is determined using models and assumptions. Members have no right to withdraw or redeem their interests in the Company.

9. Commitments and Contingencies

In the normal course of business, the Partnership may enter into contracts that contain a variety of representations and warranties, which provide general indemnifications. The Partnership's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Partnership that have not yet occurred. However, based on experience, the General Partner expects the risk of loss to be remote.

10. Subsequent Events

The General Partner has evaluated subsequent events, including any potential commitments or contingencies, through March 23, 2026, the date the financial statements were issued, and believes that there are no material subsequent events that have occurred through that date that have not already been reflected in the financial statements and/or disclosed in the notes.
